

Another Alpha Wildlife Publication coming soon

INTOLERABLE CRUELTY

The truth behind killing neck snares and strychnine
by Gilbert Proulx

Intolerable Cruelty is about killing neck snares that are used in Canada to kill thousands of red foxes, coyotes, wolves and non-target animals. This book discloses exclusive snapshots of long and painful deaths of snared animals, and reviews scientific findings related to their cruelty and non-selectivity.

Intolerable Cruelty is also about the use of strychnine in Canada to kill predators. This book reviews how strychnine baits are used to destroy wolves and an array of non-target species.

Table of Contents

Preface		vii	SECTION II STRYCHNINE	59
SECTION I KILLING NECK SNARES	1		Chapter 10 On the tracks of the boreal woodland caribou	61
Chapter 1 On a trapline	3		Chapter 11 Strychnine in Canada	67
Chapter 2 Long, devitalizing, and painful deaths	7		Chapter 12 Death by strychnine poisoning is inhumane	75
Chapter 3 Killing neck snare technology	19		Chapter 13 Strychnine is a non-selective predacide	79
Chapter 4 Killing neck snares are not humane	25		SECTION III THE NEED FOR ACTION	85
Chapter 5 Killing neck snares are not selective	35		Chapter 14 What if killing neck snares and strychnine were banned?	87
Chapter 6 Trapping standards	43		Chapter 15 How can people influence change?	93
Chapter 7 Who supports killing neck snares?	49		EPILOGUE	95
Chapter 8 What next?	53
Chapter 9 One last word about killing neck snares	57

Follow this link to get a free preview of the book
<https://intolerable-cruelty.convertri.com/preview>